South Africans should vote wisely as the unemployment rate worsens

For immediate release

The country's unemployment rate has worsened to an alarming 32.9 % just weeks before the 2024 General Elections.

This is a clear illustration that the government under the ANC leadership has failed to implement and create jobs for millions of South Africans, which also proves that the ANC has reached a policy dead-end.

The failed ANC policies are further deepening the unemployment crisis the country faces, rather than rescuing citizens who find themselves in dreadful situations. These policies, implemented by the ANC-government are pushing more and more people into the dug hole of unemployment.

The latest unemployment statistic should be a wake-up call to many South Africans who are expected to cast their votes on the 29th of May. We urged all the unemployed citizens to vote wisely for a party that can change the status of the unemployment rate in the country.

South Africans cannot repeat the same mistake and expect different results. We urge all employed and unemployed citizens of the country to reject the ANC, together with its union alliances-COSATU.

The only guarantee for the employed not to experience the brant of unemployment is to vote the ruling party out of government. It is a travesty that COSATU and its unions continue to be married to a political party that is subjecting working age economically active people to unemployment.

We urge all South Africans in various sectors such as the mining sectors and industrial factories who are led by corrupt and mismanagement leadership to vote the ANC out on May 29.
